Becoming the Music: Jack's Story

For Jack, music isn't just something he enjoys, it's part of who he is. When Jack steps in front of a crowd, something special happens.

"I feel like I'm becoming the music," Jack said. "It's like something takes over in my body and gives me the courage and confidence to perform."

It's a feeling that has stayed with him for most of his life. Jack gave his first performance at just four years old, discovered the artist who would inspire a lifelong passion for music, Michael Jackson.

Drawn to the unique style and powerful messages behind his songs, Jack quickly became a fan. While he still enjoys performing music by some of his favourite artists, including Michael Jackson, Elvis Presley, Coldplay and The Beatles, these days he's focused on something different. He wants to perform as himself.

"I like singing their songs, but I want to be me," Jack explained.

Recently, Jack had the opportunity to share his passion when he performed at the grand opening of Cara's Mt Gambier Client Hub. He loved the atmosphere, the encouragement from those around him and the chance to get up on stage and do what he enjoys most.

Outside of music, Jack is passionate about gaming, particularly Cyberpunk-style games. He loves their distinctive visual style and creative worlds. He also enjoys spending time thinking about one of his favourite places, a farm near Mt Gambier, that reminds him of a ranch he visited as a child, where he spent many happy hours riding horses.

Image description: Jack, Cara Client, looking at the camera with a red and blue background.

Behind every performance is a strong support network, and Jack says the encouragement he receives from his Cara support team has played an important role in helping him pursue his passion.

Whether they're listening to his latest songs, providing feedback or encouraging him to perform in front of new audiences, their support helps him continue building confidence and pursuing his goals.

"It helps when people listen to my music and support what I'm doing," Jack shared.

For Jack, music is about more than performing. It's about self-expression, creativity and sharing something meaningful with the people around him.

And whether he's writing songs, stepping onto a stage or dreaming about future performances, one thing is clear, Jack's passion for music continues to open doors and create new possibilities.